Six arrested in Southridge drug bust

BY KEVIN VINK
Review Staff

The local drug trade took a big hit after Didsbury RCMP seized about $3,000 worth of marijuana from a residence in Southridge Crescent at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 3, say police.

About 200 grams of the illegal drug were seized when police executed a warrant under the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, according to police.

"The community is a lot safer today because of the stuff we've taken off the street here," said Didsbury Cpl. Clint Gulash.

"It's obvious this arrest will definitely put a large dent in the weed sold in this community in the near future. It's substantial for a community of this size," he added.

Gulash noted that six people were detained at the scene without incident by the RCMP Emergency Response Team (ERT).

"We're very happy with it," said Gulash. "We're happy that, in conjunction with our ERT that everything went off well. Everything was executed and done in a professional manner."

and everyone was arrested without incident."

The reason the warrant was issued, he said, was that an investigation led police to believe that the occupants of the house were selling marijuana, and there was also a belief that weapons were present in the residence.

"We liaised with our ERT, based on the premise that there might be weapons in there," he said.

"They were utilized for the search warrant, obviously from an officer safety and a public safety standpoint."

Gulash said that a 68-year-old female is facing charges for trafficking and possession of cannabis after police discovered scales, pre-packaged bags, cash and drug paraphernalia. The woman is due to appear in the Didsbury court on Jan. 28.

A 23-year-old male was also arrested on obstruction charges and three outstanding warrants related to breach of probation, according to police.

The other four occupants who were arrested were released without charges, said Gulash, noting that the investigation is ongoing.

Along with the pot, officers also uncovered a small amount of crack cocaine, a variety of prescription pills, and an improperly stored .22-calibre handgun, all of which were also seized, according to the RCMP.

Town encourages employees to volunteer for FD

BY KEVIN VINK
Review Staff

The Didsbury Fire Department is asking Town of Didsbury officials to lead by example and encourage its employees to volunteer for the department.

Fire Chief Pat Dodman met with town officials recently to discuss some issues that the volunteer fire department has been facing, according to Luana Smith, deputy CAO for the town.

"One of the issues is that they're experiencing challenges of having firefighters come out during the day for calls," said Smith.

"We are going to start recognizing employers who do allow their staff to attend fire calls, but it's also encouraged to allow the town's employees to become volunteer firefighters if they want to," she added.

Usually, the town has enough staff available during daytime hours that being able to give up the occasional man-hours won't be a detriment to the town's regular operations, she said.

Because the town is one of the largest employers within the town and because many of its employees work in and around the town proper, Mayor Brian Wittal said it would make sense to encourage town employees to volunteer if they want to, because many who live in town may not work in the area.

"And that's the problem nowadays, the majority of our guys work elsewhere," he said.

"Either they're out in the field if it's in oil and gas, or agriculture or whatever, they're not in town physically during the day. So they have a very difficult time having enough guys being able to get in the truck and respond to an accident or a house fire or something like that in our area, so there's definitely a risk there."

It's tough for town businesses too, he added, because many only have a handful of employees.

"Because if you've only got two or three employees and one or two of them disappear because of a fire call for several hours, your businesses, effectively, could be shut down, which isn't good either."

He said that by doing this, the town is setting an example, but is also helping the community in an unconventional way.

"All we're doing is saying that we would certainly allow them the opportunity, if a fire call comes, that, 'Yes, you go. You respond to that.' We feel that's very, very important, unless there are situations where there's safety concerns or something like that."

The town won't be forcing employees one way or another, he noted, but it will allow those who want to volunteer for the fire department to do so, and also have the ability to go out for calls if the need arises.

"It's something that not everybody wants to, or can do. There is training involved and all these things, so it's a time commitment. But if they're interested and willing to do it, we'll certainly support them on it and hopefully, if nothing else, by taking the lead and doing this, maybe others will consider doing the same."

Colts beat Medicine Hat in close game

KEVIN VINK
Review Staff

The Mountainview Colts played against the Medicine Hat Cubs last Saturday, Dec. 8 and broke away from a tie in the third period with little time left on the clock.

The Colts won the game with a final score of 5-4, and assistant coach Mike Clark said it was good to play the Cubs at home after winning their last game with a score of 10-9 after going into overtime.

"We had a good first period," said Clark. "The second was all right, and in the third (the Cubs) outplayed us, but we got it at the end and that's all that matters."

This game brought the Colts up to three out of four points for this weekend, he added.

"Tonight, Mike the goalie did really, really good, and Evan Thompson, he had a couple goals, and he did really good."

"So they're all playing pretty good; to single anyone out is tough."

Thompson, he noted, just got back into hockey after recovering from a concussion caused by an auto accident, and Clark said he's getting better every game.

"You can tell he's gotten progressively better," said Clark. "His first game, he probably lasted for 35 minutes and he had enough, so he got in a fight to get booted out, but you could tell he was tired."

Every game since then, though, he has been getting more and more into the game, said Clark.

"He didn't do anything for a couple months and now he's back at it. He's a very good hockey player, so he'll get better and better as it comes along, but I thought he played really good and he got some important goals tonight."

One problem with sustaining a concussion, he noted, is that players are wary about getting hit in the head again.

"So the more that he plays, the more he realizes he's not going to get hurt. He's gotten better and better."

"That's really good to see because he's very important to our team."

Cubs coach Brad Cobb said it was a good game, all-around.

"I wish we could have come up here and got a point at least, but it was a good game overall," Cobb noted.

"It was tight all along. I mean, we were playing catch-up for the whole game and every time we seemed to get it tied up, they'd come back and answer right away and they deserve the win."

The Cubs were still suffering from bus-lag after playing Friday night as well.

"They jumped out two-nothing in a row quick on us and we started getting going in the last five minutes of the first period. Then, like I said, it was catch-up for the rest of the game and they all played well."

NHL lockout won't stop determined Tykes

SUBMITTED

The NHL may not have a season, but the Didsbury Tyke 1 Ramblers do.

With smiles, skill and style, our team has come together under the supportive direction of our coaching staff - Clint Aarsby, Ian Brander and Doug Bedard.

Win or lose, our boys conduct themselves like pros and always have an exciting time learning and celebrating the game of hockey.

Our team is composed of rookies, veterans, mini-coaches and on (and off) ice entertainers, including Chase Aarsby, Donavin Bedard, Seth Brander, Keenan Feenstra, Brendan Fifield, Cole Howard, Zane Krueger, Ryder Mierke, Blake Miller, Galvin Nygard, Peyton Reese and Nicholas Sloan.

We may be small but we are mighty and have a coaching staff that makes each practice and game more fun than the last.

If you are wondering what to do on a Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning, stop by the arena and cheer on our up-and-coming Didsbury Rambler All-Stars!

New dates for Christmas Helpers

BY KEVIN VINK
Review Staff

Christmas Helpers, a community initiative is changing its annual hamper collection and delivery dates to Dec. 20-21, rather than Dec. 21-22, according to officials.

Linda Sirr said the program, which has been going for 30 years, has received overwhelming support through the years, and she wants to get the word out so people who use the program won't be left in the cold.

"Hampers are for people in the Didsbury area," said Sirr. "We did over 100 of them last year. It's a big deal—it's huge."

The program also accepts donations that will be put towards toys for children, she added. "It's at the Zion Evangelical Missionary Church," she said. "I think everyone knows it's there. Dec. 20 is the gift wrapping, that's at 7 p.m., and hamper delivery is on the 21st."

In the past, it has always been Dec. 21-22, she said, and she thinks that the change may cause some problems if people are not aware of it.

If anyone needs a hamper, or knows somebody who may need one, she said they can call ZEMC Monday to Friday during the day, at 403-335-3629.

Sirr added that volunteers are also needed to help wrap gifts and make up hampers, and also to assist with delivery.

Rosebud Run deemed a success by organizers

BY KEVIN VINK
Review Staff

The Rosebud Run went off without a hitch last weekend, according to organizers. Despite a bit of windy weather, the amount of snow was accommodating and the competitors said they enjoyed the course.

Bill Windsor, president of the Rosebud Run Sleddog Society, said it went very well, all things considered.

"We didn't have any mishaps," said Windsor. "Everybody seemed to be happy coming across the line—humans and dogs—and you can't ask for anything more than that."

The weather was fabulous too, he added.

"It was nice and cold. We didn't have too much wind so it wasn't too brutal. It was a fabulous weekend."

Though the amount of snow was on the shy side, he noted that the trail held up well.

"We had not the greatest amount of snow for the trail, but enough. And because of the work we did on it prior to the race, it held up very well," he said.

"I don't know how many teams went over it, but there were a lot of teams that went over it today and it's still in pretty good shape."

The trail was pretty fast, he noted, adding that most competitors came in with good times. He also said that the more experienced racers came in above those with less experience.

"Which makes perfect sense," said Windsor. "What that says to me is the trail was what it was supposed to be and that nobody had problems on the trail, and that's really important to me."

The results are posted on the website (www.rosebudrun.ca), he added. "We have Internet down here so as soon as the results come into the office, they're posted and they're on the website, so everyone can check out who did what, where."

Kirsten Phillips, secretary of the board of directors of the Rosebud Run Sleddog Society said that the races went well from her perspective too.

"The races were very smooth this weekend," said Phillips. "The trail was in excellent condition, the competitors were really happy."

The races actually ran a bit ahead of schedule too, she added.

"The wind was a little stronger yesterday, so the wind chill played a bit of a part, but the dogs were all happy and that's the main concern for us is that the animals are very well cared for."

The dogs actually run better in the cold, and of course the mushers come prepared for the worst, she added.

"The mushers always have a hardy attitude and so they were fine with the wind chill. They always manage to dress for it, so it's not usually a problem."

"It's our volunteers that we really worry about. So we have a fire and food for them in case they need to warm up."

The race, which has become something of a tradition for mushers and the community, pulls in people from around the province, she said.

"The races were very smooth this weekend. The trail was in excellent condition, the competitors were really happy."

KIRSTEN PHILLIPS
Rosebud Run Sleddog Society

"We have several people return to our race every year and the competition is really close in some categories," she noted. "There's a section of our trail that people are allowed to pass on and we had some passing action in some of our classes."

Though some of the classes were on the smaller side, she said the larger classes had some close races.

"We are just really grateful for our volunteers, and the competitors sometimes come from quite a long distance to come to our race and we're just really grateful for the support."

The society is looking forward to its next event, she added, which is the Mush Rush in January, a two-day fun event that anybody can enter.

Nancy Harland approaches the finishing line of the 2-mile novice class of the 6th annual Rosebud Run Sled Dog Classic last Saturday.

Phillips said the number of teams competing this year was a little smaller than in previous years, but that may be because the run this past weekend was actually held over from last January-February.

"I think that the date change made it not work for some people this year, but now they know that our permanent date is probably going to be in December, because we have good snow."

The society is hoping to organize two races per year now, as well as fun events, she noted.

"(The fun runs are) not on the spur of the moment but with a couple week's notice," she said. "Like if the snow's great, we'll put on a fun event, so actually at Halloween time, we ran a Halloween fun run called the Halloween Howl, and then we did this event."

Natalie Appleman, a skijor racer who came in from Pigeon Lake, Alta., did the four-mile skijor, which is where competitors put on a pair of cross-country skis and have their dogs pull them around the course.

"It was really nice. Really easy going, and fast, too," said Appleman. "It was chilly, but really good for the dogs. They loved it and they went really fast. My one dog was just giving it."

Appleman has been at the track every year since its inception and she added, "It's always a blast."

A husky peers out of its crate at the end of last Saturday's race day.

Kevin Sparham spends some time with one of the sled dogs at the end of the race day last Saturday.

Mayor's talk: Building community as we head into the holiday season

BRIAN WITTAL

As we enter into the winter season and the approaching Christmas holidays, it is the perfect time to remind ourselves of the good fortune we have to be living in Canada and in particular in such a great town as Didsbury. The true charm and personality of Didsbury and its residents shine throughout the holiday season.

I would like to talk about how as individual citizens we can make a difference in our community, province and country by helping to build our community through our actions towards others. It may be by helping a neighbour shovel their sidewalk, or giving them a lift downtown to run errands, that can make a world of difference to someone and help them to feel like they are part of the community and not forgotten.

It may be through volunteering with one of the many churches, groups or organizations in Didsbury that focus on building community through good deeds. You may be coaching a sports team, volunteering at the hospital or seniors' care facility, or helping to put together Christmas hampers and shoebox gifts for those less fortunate.

There are many different ways that you can, on a daily basis, help to build community wherever you live or work. A friendly hello or a kind word or compliment to a fellow worker could go a long way to making their day better.

Didsbury is a reflection of the people who live and work here. It is about how we treat one another and newcomers as family when we meet on the street or in a store, and take the time to say hello and visit for moment.

So during the weeks ahead as Christmas approaches, please take the time and make the effort to talk to a newcomer on the street, say hello to a neighbour and give of your time and talents to help others. All of this will help to build our sense of community in Didsbury.

Police Briefs

BY KEVIN VINK

Hit and run

Didsbury RCMP Cpl. Clint Gulash said a hit and run was reported on Tuesday, Dec. 4, sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m.

The crime occurred on 19 Avenue, across the street from JD's Restaurant.

"With these kind of things, we're just looking to see if anyone witnessed the vehicle strike another vehicle and leave the scene," said Gulash.

"And if we do, we obviously recommend that people see if they can obtain a licence plate and call it in with what they've seen."

In this case, he noted there wasn't a lot of damage to the vehicle, so police were not able to get any kind of paint transfer to determine what kind of vehicle they should be looking for.

"But just kind of a general request that if anyone's out there and they're watching and they see that kind of stuff occur to call us."

Dangerous driver fined

Police received a call about a youth driving erratically down the street last week, said Gulash.

A member responded to the call and located a white Dodge Ram, with a 17-year-old male driver.

"He was fishtailing down the road and was subsequently charged with stunting, based on the evidence," said Gulash.

"In relation to this too, he didn't realize it, but the vehicle almost struck a pedestrian."

Sgt. Jeff Jacobson said that bystanders saw the event, were concerned about it, and called it in to police.

He noted that the driver was handed a $402 fine and some demerits for stunting as well.

"So basically the message there is that vehicles aren't toys or games," said Gulash.

"We've got to be very careful, especially with the roads how they are. With the icy conditions, it's very easy to lose control of a vehicle and cause a lot of damage or hurt someone."

Fire department changes official name

The Didsbury District Fire Department was officially re-named the Didsbury Fire Department last Tuesday, Nov. 27 at a town council meeting.

Since the abolishment of the fire authorities earlier this year, the town has entered into a contract to serve Mountain View County when the need arises, said Mayor Brian Wittal.

"Because there is no more authority board, they thought it would be easier to say Didsbury Fire Department, it's less to print on crests and publications too," said Wittal. "I think it just gives them more ownership of the department as well."

110. In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of Elsie Brander
May 29, 1920 - Dec. 14, 2011

Always remembered and missed by your family
Our Mother kept a garden
A garden of the heart
She planted all the good things
That gave our lives a start
She turned us to the sunshine
And encouraged us to dream
Fostering and nurturing the seeds of self esteem
She protected us enough
But not too much, she knew we'd need
To stand up strong and tough
Her constant good example
Always taught us right from wrong
Markers for our pathways
To last our whole lives long
We are our Mother's garden
We are her legacy
And we know she feels the love
Reflected back from thee.
